BIG MERGER LOOMS TO BATTLE FORD

FINANCIAL GIANTS LINEUP DUPONTS, GENERAL MOTORS

And the United States Steel Corporation Get Together and Fuse Interests For a Sinister Purpose—Most Formidable Array of Capital Combines.

The report of a "community of interest" between E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., General Motors Corporation and the United States Steel Corporation was strengthened Wednesday at Wilmington, Delaware, when stockholders of the Dupont company were informed that it had purchased 114,000 shares of common stock of the steel corporation for approximately $14,000,000 or slightly less than $123 a share.

Common stock of the U. S. Steel corporation sold at $129 2-3 on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday.

The Dupont company also owns 1,906,244 shares of General Motors common stock, which is carried on the books this year at $60 a share against $46.88 a share last year, although the stock sold on the New York Exchange as high as 229 1-4.

This is the first official confirmation of recurring reports in Wall street that Dupont interests have been heavy buyers of U. S. steel.

In connection with these reports it has been stated that Pierre Dupont, now in Europe, would be elected a director of the United States Steel corporation and eventually would succeed Elbert H. Gary as chairman.

No change in directors was announced, however, at Wednesday's meeting of steel directors. Neither was any change made in General Motors directors although there were rumors that Alfred P. Sloan Jr., would be elected to the chairmanship of the board and succeeded as president by Walter P. Chrysler, whose company would be taken into the General Motors corporation.

Earnings of the Dupont company

for the half year, applicable to the common stock, were $21,436,642, equivalent to $8.05 a share, compared with $19,315,384 or $7.26 a share in the first half of 1926, and $8,919,142 or $3.35 a share in the first half of 1925.

The company's investment in General Motors returned $15,969,331, compared with $11,318,733 for the first half of 1926 and included $7,984,976, which was the company's portion of the extra dividend received January 4.

Surplus on June 30, was $59,407,964 compared with $66,417,566 at the beginning of the year. Dividends paid on the common stock in the half year were $18,630,615. Current assets were $69,769,240, of which $17,351,133 were cash, against current liabilities of $5,186,141. Total gross assets were $346,341,460.

Temple Yields Facts

About Ancient Mexico

Mexico City.—A sumptuous chamber, the walls of which are covered with fresco paintings, said to be very similar to those found in the prehistoric temple of horticulture in the archaeological city of San Juan Teotihuacan in the Valley of Mexico, is reported to have been discovered in the Maya ruins at Chichen Itza, Yucatan, by Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, in charge of archaeological investigations in Yucatan under the auspices of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C., and the Mexican government.

The frescoes are said to be marvelously preserved and it is expected that when the picture writings are finally deciphered by scientists much new light will be shed on the history of Maya civilization.

Doctor Morley announced to the Mexican government that his work of exploration has been stopped for the year, because of the intense heat.

Princess-Salesgirl

to Wed Her Employer

Paris, France.—A romance that began when a Russian emigre princess became a saleswoman has culminated in the engagement of Lucien Lelong, Paris dressmaker, and Princess Nathalie Paley of the imperial Russian family. They will be married early in August.

Lelong met the nineteen-year-old princess only a few months ago when she joined his staff as first saleswoman in his perfume department.

Princess Nathalie is the second daughter of Grand Duke Paul of Russia and of Princess Olga Paley. The late Czar Nicholas II was her father's nephew.

During the war Nathalie, with her sister, Princess Irene, was taken into Finland. After her father was assassinated in 1919 her mother was smuggled out of Russia by a count dressed as a peasant. After the mother rejoined her family in Finland they moved to Paris and became socially prominent.

Princess Irene Paley recently married a Romanoff, Prince Theodore, son of the czar's sister, Princess Zenia.

SHOPLIFTERS VISIT CRIST DEP'T STORE

Silk Patterns to the Value of $60 Taken--Goods Were Recovered One Hour Later.

A light fingered shoplifter visited the Crist Department store this morning at eight o'clock and lifted six pieces of tub silk goods valued at $60. The theft and a fair description of the silk stolen was given the sheriff and police departments and the stolen goods were recovered by the sheriff's department.

The eagle eye of Deputy John Ward Jr., detected a darkey emerge from an alley back of Albert Dodd's place on South Scioto street, with a suspicious looking bundle under his arm. The fellow was stopped and in the package was the stolen silk.

He was brought to the sheriff's office and questioned. He gave his name as Rudolph Peterson and his residence as Portsmouth. He claimed to have purchased the goods from a saddle colored darkey giving him $3 for it. This description fits the stranger seen in the store early this morning and he will probably be found near the city in some railroad camp. In the meantime the man arrested was placed in the county jail and will be held as a material witness.

The time the merchandises was stolen was propitious, as the clerks of the store had not yet arrived and the only one present besides Willis Cawley, who has charge of the first floor, was the janitor, Jay Henry.

Neuding, of this city, president; C. J. Poulton, secretary and P. F. Leffler, of this city, as treasurer.

The meetings are growing in interest and power. Professor Engle preached a powerful sermon Tuesday evening on "Pride." Thursday, the Missionary women will have full charge with their own speaker. QUEEN MARIE OF ROUMANIA WILL RETURN

Wishes to Travel as Private Person and to Look in on Political Convention.

Queen Marie has decided to visit the United States again. She hopes to start soon after her period of mourning for King Ferdinand is over she said.

In a conversation with the correspondent the queen, who is gradually recovering from the first shock of Ferdinand's death, said that she wished to travel next time as a private person so that she could go where she pleased, do as she wanted, not be a burden to the state and municipal officials and avoid quarrels among her followers.

"There are a thousand and one things I omitted seeing on my last journey and legions of people I failed to meet," Queen Marie said. "I want to see one of your great national political conventions and if time and my duties permit next summer, it is possible that I shall be able to leave Bucharest, Rumania, in time to see such a gathering."

Miss Adelaide Webb, of Columbus, is the guest of Mrs. Edward Valentine.

FARMERS ARE LEARNING

Surprise is expressed that there is no rush of new wheat to the market. Anyone who will study what has been going on for the last few years may discover the reason. If our farmers have learned any one thing, it is not to glut the market with offerings of the new crop. They may not be situated so as to be able to "feed" the market with wheat, but they do not need to hurry about selling their crop. Orderly marketing is made possible through a number of agencies. These do not yet function 100 per cent, but they are so far ahead of the old-time practice that their operations are a surprise to the uninformed. When the farmer can choose his own time for selling, he will be in a far better position to control the price, and that is where he is landing.—Omaha Bee.

Dead Sea Unique

The level of the Dead sea in Palestine is 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, and its waters are very salty and, therefore, heavy and buoyant. The River Jordan, flowing down from the north, empties into the Dead sea, and there is no visible outlet to the latter.

Lesson for July 21

D. AND JONATHAN

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 18:1-4 19:1-7.
GOLDEN TEXT—There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Good Friends.
JUNIOR TOPIC—David and Jonathan.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choosing the Right Kind of Friends.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Obligations of Friendship.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan was the crown prince, the heir to the throne. David was heir according to the divine choice and arrangement. Jonathan knew this and magnanimously waived his natural personal rights to the one he knew God had chosen.

I. Friendship Established Between David and Jonathan (I Sam. 18:1-4).
1. Love at Sight (vv. 2).

Following the interview of Saul and David after the victory over Goliath, Jonathan's soul was knit with that of David. He loved him as his own soul. While there was mutual love, this pleasing trait stands out more prominently in Jonathan than in David because it meant great loss to him—the loss of the throne; while it meant immense gain to David, the acquisition of the throne to which he had no natural right.

2. Covenant established (vv. 3, 4).
Following the love covenant between them, Jonathan stripped himself of his court robe and his equipment and gave them to David. This act was a virtual abdication of the throne to David.

II. Jonathan Defended David Against Saul's Frenzy (I Sam. 19:1-7).
David went into the battle with Goliath out of zeal for God and true religion—not for personal glory, but it turned out as always that because he made God first, God honored him.

Upon David's return from victory over the Philistines, according to Oriental custom he was met by a triumphal chorus of women from all the cities of Israel chanting praises to him for his victory over their enemy.

For his victory ascribed more praise and honor to David than to Saul. These women seemed to sing as answering chants. The one sang, "Saul has slain his thousands," the other answered, "and David his ten thousands." To hear sung the praises of a shepherd boy surpassing his own was too much for Saul. It aroused murderous envy which had been slumbering in his heart and moved him twice to attempt to kill David. This wickedness was in his heart as a bitter feeling, but this occasion fanned it into a flame, making it a burning passion of evil.

In Saul's third attempt to kill David, Jonathan defended him before his father and evoked from him the oath that David should not be slain. He thus exposed himself to the anger of his infuriated father for David's sake.

III. Jonathan Revealed to Saul's Murderous Intent (I Sam. 20:30-40).

The beginning of the new moon was celebrated by sacrifices and feasting at which all the members of the family were expected to be present (v. 5). David's excuse for being absent was that he might go home to attend the yearly sacrifice of the entire family. The annual feast was more important than the monthly feast. Matters were now so serious that Jonathan and David renewed the covenant between themselves. In this renewal the terms were broadened beyond the life of Jonathan (vv. 14, 15). Saul's anger was now so fierce that for Jonathan to be found in David's company was most dangerous, so he cleverly planned a sign by which he could make known to David Saul's attitude and purpose. We prove our friendship by warning those who are exposed to danger. David's heart responded by pledging fidelity to Jonathan's seed forever. This pledge was faithfully carried out by David (II Sam. 9:7, 8). Concerning real friendship observe:

1. It should be made while both parties are young, when the hearts are capable of being knit together.
2. Real friends are few. We should be careful in the formation of friendships. For though we should love everybody we can have but few friends. Friendship should be formed for the purpose of helping each other. There can be no real friendship except where merit is on both sides.
3. Real friendship can only be with God-fearing people. Both David and Jonathan recognized their obligation to the Lord.

SEE BENEFITS

To Housewives In the Study of Meats.

What is responsible for the varying degrees of quality and tastiness of the meat we eat?

If the family complains of the steak or roast, Mrs. Housewife very naturally blames the meat and censors the retailer from whom she bought it. Perhaps she is justified but it has been truthfully said that many a good piece of meat has been ruined in the cooking.

Study Meat Quality.

Housewives and consumers in general no doubt will be interested in a national co-operative study which is now delving into this question of meat quality and its tastiness. The study is fostered by the National Live Stock and Meat Board and the actual work of carrying it out has been assumed by state agricultural experiment stations throughout the country and the United States Department of Agriculture. These agencies are seeking to determine the factors which influence quality and palatability of meat. Some of these factors are known but there are others yet to be uncovered.

To reach a final analysis of quality and palatability of meat these research agencies are going to the very bottom of the subject. Their work starts with experimentation on the breeding and feeding of the meat animals. The observations are carried on through the slaughtering and processing of the meat and through the two final steps of cooking and tasting.

Cooking Tests Important.

The cooking tests are considered one of the most important steps of the entire chain of work. Dr. P. F. Trowbridge, director of the North Dakota Experiment Station, who is chairman of the cooking committee for the study, emphasizes the necessity for great care in the cooking of the experimental meats. The committee has worked out an official method for the roasting of beef and is now working on a method for other meats.

It is not expected or intended that housewives will follow the cooking methods as laid down by the committee but there is every assurance that when the study is completed it will reveal a great deal of information of value to the woman who daily buys and prepares meat.

Other interesting phases of the study include the development of mechanical means by which color and texture can be definitely measured. Many other steps are being considered, all leading up to the cooked product.

These became known as Conestogas, later abbreviated to stogies.

GREAT LAKES' FREIGHT TRAFFIC

More than 30,000,000 tons of freight have passed through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal already this season, exceeding the tonnage of the same period last year by 7,000,000. This in spite of the fact that reduction of rail freight rates for grain compelled a number of the grain carriers to tie up a considerable time.

Nevertheless the slump in Great Lakes' traffic predicted in shipping circles early in the year did not materialize. In the long list of articles of freight carried through the Sault Ste. Marie locks in the month of June were 956,150 barrels of flour, 6,012,919 bushels of grain other than wheat, 14,279,044 bushels of wheat, 7,977 tons of copper, 10,998 tons of pig iron, 11,920 tons of stone and 11,370 tons of miscellaneous merchandise. All the above was eastbound.

Returning vessels carried 2,883,448 tons of soft coal, 176,922 tons of hard coal, 7,305 tons of salt, 15,650 tons of oil, 62,277 tons of stone and 82,655 tons of merchandise. What a region surrounds these Great Lakes!—Detroit News.

Bobbed Hair Needs 10,000 More Barbers in England

London.—Shingling and bobbing have created jobs for 10,000 additional barbers in England in the last three or four years, according to statistics just compiled by the British Hairdressers' association.

There are now more than 42,000 barbers and hairdressers in England compared with 32,000 a few years ago.

In 1914 one out of every five barbers died of consumption. This death rate has been greatly decreased since the war, due to shorter hours that barbers are required to work, and to the healthier conditions prevailing in the barber shops.

PURE TIN YIELDED BY GOLD HILL MINE

Oregon's "Mystery White Metal" Is Identified.

Portland, Ore.—Pure tin is being extracted from the rocks near Gold Hill, in the Rogue River valley. That the white metal is tin has been attested by assayers in San Francisco, Denver and other places.

"We have demonstrated that we have tin. We have the mine from which the tin came. We have put all our resources into the development to date. Now we want to know whether Portland wants to develop a new industry or whether we must look elsewhere."

Such is the statement made by E. F. Logan and E. S. Erskine, ex-residents of Bend, who are in the city to submit their discovery to the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Have No Doubts.

Much has been written about the "mystery white metal" around Grants Pass. Some maintain it is tin and others express doubts. There is no doubt in the minds of Messrs. Logan and Erskine, for they have the concrete evidence and the scientific reports. These visitors represent the group of men owning the Golden Cross mine, which is three miles out in Sam's valley, north of Gold Hill, and more specifically located on Payne's gulch through which runs Payne's creek, emptying into Rogue river.

M. D. Jackson, prospector, now seventy-six, discovered the mine, having been grubstaked by Logan, then employed building a logging railroad for one of the big sawmill companies of Bend.

"For seven years we worked it as a gold mine," said Mr. Logan. "We figured we had a large body of ore. The vein is 35 feet wide 3,000 feet long, and we don't know how deep. Two years ago Glen Spurlin, who had worked in Australia and was familiar with tin, came to us. He told us that our rock contained tin, and we thought he was kidding. He rigged up a furnace and proved it by recovering buttons which were tested and found to be tin."

All Showed Tin.

"In two years these tin buttons have been carried away by many people and whenever they have been tested they showed tin. We have built a laboratory and complete equipment. We do not cook rock in kitchen stoves or blacksmith forges, but in a regular assayer's furnace. It is done in the approved scientific method. We have produced between fifty and sixty pounds of tin. Some of the bars, which we have refined, show analysis of 98 per cent pure tin. Not one, but several assayers have given certificates to that effect. The ore will average 6 per cent tin."

"There is no question whatever as to the identity of our metal. It is tin. We have proved that and are willing to prove it to any one. We would appreciate if the Chamber of Commerce of Portland or the State Chamber of Commerce would come or send representatives to our property and at first hand inform themselves as to the possibilities of developing it."

Money talks, but few of us are in a position to be bored by it.

After some men get a start in life they don't know when to stop.

Too many men who run into debt don't even attempt to crawl out.

Power, carried to extremes, is always liable to reaction.—Rufus Choate.

To neglect good books is to refuse to enter into a most splendid human heritage.

Very often a genial man is one who enjoys fun and comfort at the expense of others.

After being given away at the altar, many a young bride finds that she has been sold.

When a jealous man marries a jealous woman there is something doing every minute.

We may not always recognize it, but only that comes to us that we have sent out.

PATCHING A SHINGLED ROOF

To repair wooden shingled roofs, an unusually simple and speedy method is to use slip patches cut from single-ply asphalt roofing. These are long enough to reach from the butt of the shingle up to the first row of nails. Lift the shingle up just far enough to allow a slip to be pushed in place. The sun melts the asphaltum sufficiently to stick the slip in place. No nails are needed.

When a roof has to be patched, first unroll the roofing on a floor and brush it well on both sides to prepare the surfaces so they will stick readily. Then divide the roofing into rectangles measuring 3 by 5 or 3 by 6 inches. As many as 2,500 of these slip shingles can be obtained from three rolls of one-ply roofing.—Popular Science Monthly.

310,960,019 Coins

Were Made in 1927

Washington.—Fifty-eight million nickels, 175,847,000 pennies and 49,606,000 dimes were turned into the pockets of the nation by the United States mints during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report just issued by the director of the mint.

The coinage of money by the mints in Philadelphia, Denver, San Francisco and Washington fluctuated considerably during the last year, but this is due to varying demands for new money by the banks of the country, it was said.

The total domestic coinage for 1927 numbered 310,960,019 coins, with a value of $102,653,125. Compared to the report of 1926, there is a decrease in the number of pieces produced, but an increase in the value of the coins.

The most valuable coins produced were the double eagle gold pieces, with a total value of $82,840,000. Proving wide prosperity in the nation is the fact that more gold coins were made by the mints in 1927 than in the previous year, with a value of nearly $10,000,000 more.

In silver coinage, the total produced for 1927 was 72,323,019 pieces valued at $14,029,550. Last year's figures show 65,912,456 pieces with a value of $19,183,178. In this case it is shown that there were more pieces made this year, but with less value than the production of 1926.

NOW PASSING
MOTOR TRUCK*Will Take Place of Camels
Long Used as the Motive
Power on African Trails.Asia is now witnessing the passing of the camel. A caravan company, we are told, has sent a representative to Constantinople to purchase a fleet of motor trucks to replace the camels that it has been using for motive power on the 600-mile Trebizond-Tabriz trail. The caterpillar truck promises to become the modern ship of the desert.Altho motor cars long ago took the place of the horse on our own highways, the camel has continued as the transportation system on this ancient trail, over which Xenophon led his retreating Ten Thousand. States fall, arts fade, but camels, it seemed,
were an eternal fixture on the desert,
where automobiles of the conventional type would be useless. It was the camel that brought the wealth of Hindustan to the Roman Empire, and old Byzantine palaces, that have seen better days, now serve as stables for the princely camels of the caravan company.But the caterpillar trucks, involving a new principle in mechanics, just as the camel involves a unique principle of animal anatomy, is said to be a much superior means of propulsion. The caterpillar feature seems, in fact, to be the straw that will break the camel's back. A truck of 20 camelpower can haul several tons to the camel's 400 pounds, and one having an air cooled motor, if this is feasible under desert conditions, could excel the humped beast in traveling long distances without renewing its water supply.The camel, in short, is succumbing to the age of speed. Tho a reliable burden bearer since antiquity, its usefulness is to end because nature gave it only a low speed, instead of a three-speed transmission. The camel will find it as difficult to compete with motor power as to crawl
thru the eye of a needle.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.PERSONALSMrs. Orion King spent the day in

ing Lake Erie, 300 representatives of manufacturers, bankers, and merchants of the prosper-

district, with their interesting
exhibits will record the important reasons
why Cleveland and eighteen neighbor cities
have made the most of the district's natural advantages and its spirit of progress.Col. Joseph H. Alexander, president of the Cleveland Railway Company, is president of the exposition, and Ailard Smith, vice president of the Union Trust Company and chairman of the Industrial Development Committee, is secretary. The manager is Lincoln G. Dickey, who has been in complete charge of the Cleveland
Public Auditorium since it was opened several years ago.The vast Public Auditorium,
which housed
the last G. O. P.
National Convention and in which Paderewski and Sousa
played to the largest audiences in their entire careers will house many of the exhibits. To the west is another exhibition hall, a city block in length. Between these huge structures is the broad esplanade, in which stands the lofty Tower of Jewels—a glittering example of the progress in electrical development, in which Cleveland is a leading factor.The Tower of Jewels, being built for exclusive exhibit at the Ohio-Cleveland Industrial Exposition, is being studded with thousands of crystals.
Fountains will play at its base.
Soft clouds of steam will float upward through its gem-decked
steel supports.
Shafts of colored lights will play
on the fountain
waters and on the floating clouds of steam. Concealed in its structure will be loud speakers to carry music and announcements far beyond the exposition enclosure. In the same esplanade will be staged the pure amusement features of the exposition. One of the bands that will occupy the band shell is Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa's own.

Lincoln Dickey

The exposition management is conducting an attendance contest,
in which hundreds of northern Ohio women and girls are competing to give answer to the slogan question,
"Who Will Carry Mighty Ohio Around the World?" Winners will be sent on world tours, as the slogan suggests, to tell other nations of Ohio's industrial prestige and opportunities. City and exposition officials will escort the winners down Euclid avenue to the exposition on opening day.A number of special days and programs are scheduled. On one of these "days" employees who have worked for the longest, continuous period of years in the plants of exhibitors at the exposition will be honored. The Cleveland Plain Dealer is selecting these candidates for oldest employee honors, and medals will be awarded to those chosen.Plans are under way to call attention to the fact that Cleveland's great industrial gateway, the new $60,000,000 railroad terminal bordering Public Square, is nearing completion. This, by all odds, is Cleveland's biggest single building achievement.Playing host to national conventions, which assemble delegates of 5,000 to 10,000 here in the Fifth City, has given Cleveland broad experience in making thousands of visitors enjoy themselves. But the exposition is expected to draw the greatest number of guests in three weeks that Cleveland has entertained in a like period in its whole history. Hotels are expanding their accommodations, and a new hotel is being rushed to completion to care for the anticipated throngs.Tourist camps, municipal and private, are getting ready to take care of the thousands who will make Cleveland an objective in August.TWO PROWLERS

nursed her baby in the front room of her home.The men escaped under cover of darkness the street light in the vicini-ting in the room with her baby when she heard the glass in the rear door

crash to the floor. The two men, roughly dressed and unshaven, according to her story, ran into the room and seized her, one choking her so she was unable to scream, the other assailant took her child from her arms and placed it on a davenport. When she refused to disclose where her money was concealed, one of the bandits beat her about the face
while the other snarled, "keep quiet and tell us where it is or we will kill you."The men continued to beat her, she said and after a search found $20
she had hidden on her person. Throwing Mrs. Teats to the floor the men ran out of a rear door.AUTO CRASH

jured, probably fatally, and a third,
the driver, escaped uninjured, when the sedan they were riding along Brice pike Wednesday evening crashed into a water wagon parked along side of a steam threshing machine.Occupants of the car, all residents of Brice, were Garlin H. Powell, 27,

fractured and chest crushed and Bert Kallies, 34, unhurt.Mr. Powell was dead when a Wine-emergency operation was performed at the hospital in effort to save Wright's life, but little hope for him was entertained by those in attendance. Mr. Powell's body was taken home by the W. I. Winegarner Co.Mr. Kallies said the three men were returning home from farm work and were driving about 25 miles an hour south on the Brice pike. He said he did not see the wagon or threshing machine, which were parked while water was being put in the thrasher.

Several who saw the accident said there were lights on both vehicles.Mr. Powell is survived by three brothers and a son. He was a $12 to $15 Per DayNew Britain, Conn.—Any good hobo with a hard-luck story can make from $12 to $15 a day, in the opinion of Prof. W. B. Bailey, formerly of Yale, who lived the life of a tramp three summers and then for ten years conducted a hobo's lodging house."Thanks to the American housewife, the easiest thing a tramp does is to eat," he said in telling of his experiences at a Rotary club dinner.

"The only objection he has to the

to That of Tea RoseNew York.—Changing the odor of substances that ordinarily smell like rotten eggs and garlic to the fragrance of the geranium and the tea rose is part of the work of Dr. Marston Taylor Bogert, professor of organic chemistry in Columbia university.Professor Bogert is director of the research department established in the university more than a year ago by the American Manufacturers of Toilet Articles, the organization representing the perfume and cosmetic industry, for the purpose of making a study of the relation between odor and chemical constitution. Since the founding of this department, gratifying and startling results have been obtained.The new sulphur and selenium compound is typical. Ordinarily unoxidized sulphur or selenium organic compounds have exceedingly disgusting and unpleasant odors. Sometimes the odor is so powerful that 1,400,000,000 of a milligram of thesubstance is sufficient to give a fairly perceptible smell. The odor of sulphur is like rotten eggs; that of selenium, like rotten eggs and garlic.
Yet Professor Bogert and his associates have succeeded in synthesizing a totally new compound, containing both unoxidized sulphur and unoxidized selenium, yet recalling in its fragrance the geranium and the tea
rose.A ParableScientists say that among mosqui-

GAME PRESERVE NEAR SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

Wind Cave National Park Interesting Place.

Washington.—President Coolidge's summer "White House," the game lodge of the Custer state park game preserve in the Black Hills of South Dakota, is only a few miles north of one of the federal big-game preserves. This is in the Wind Cave National park, 4,000 acres of which have been fenced and maintained by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. The preserve was established by act of congress in August, 1912, and its size will be nearly doubled this summer by inclosing 3,000 more acres.

One of Largest Caves in West.

Wind cave, for which both the national park and the game preserve have been named, is one of the larger of the known caves in the West, and together with the big-game animals in the preserve, which may frequently be seen by passing tourists, attracts increasing thousands of visitors each year. It is on the main highway from Custer to Hot Springs, S. D., on the southern slope of the Black Hills, commonly known as the foothills, a region made famous by Indian warfare.

The cave proper was named because of the current of air, often very strong, that blows intermittently in and out, varying in force and direction in response to changing temperature. It once served as channels for subterranean waters which now follow other courses. Approximately one hundred miles of passageways have been explored, and guides have penetrated to a depth of 1,500 feet. There are said to be thousands of passageways that have never been explored, and a party that leaves the beaten trails is in grave danger of being lost. For this reason no one is permitted to enter the cave without an experienced guide.

Discoverer in Doubt.

Several men have claimed the distinction of discovering Wind cave. According to one story, a cowboy was riding along the ravine when a gust of air from a small opening in the ground blew off his hat and in this way attracted his attention to the cave. Old settlers differ as to who was the actual discoverer, and a great deal is left to conjecture. The cave has many interesting and unusual geological formations.

The game preserve contains 150 buffalo, 144 elk, and 18 antelope, and, as it is a bird refuge also, many species of wild birds are protected there, including grouse and quail. The situation of the Wind cave game preserve is ideal for the perpetuation of the big-game animals that in great numbers formerly roamed the Black Hills region. Near the game preserve and park is Buffalo gap, through which great plains herds of buffalo are said to have passed in massed formation on their way to and from their winter range.

Deadly African Fly

Tsetse is a small, brownish fly found in the warmer parts of South Africa, particularly in the central part of the Zambesi valley. Its bite is fatal to most domestic animals, but harmless to wild beasts, goats and asses. It is now known to disseminate sleeping sickness among the natives.

AMUSEMENTS

In "Rich Men's Sons," the Columbia romantic drama, at the Metropolitan theater last night, Ralph Graves earns for himself commendation as a director, as well as on his pleasing characterization of the masculine lead. He competently proves his versatility behind as well as before the camera.

The entertaining story moves along quickly and logically, and the many humorous situations and highly dramatic moments show a deftness of handling that augurs well for Graves' directorial career.

"Rich Men's Sons" concerns itself with a railroad magnate's disinherited young son, who meets romance in a steel mill, wins his way as office boy to the girl's heart, and proves his manhood. A thrilling race between the boy in a racer and the father in an express train makes a forceful high point in the action.

Shirley Mason gives a charming interpretation of the girl, while George Fawcett is once more thoroughly at home as the railroad president father. Robert Cain, Frances Raymond, Scott Seaton, Walter James and Johnny Fox complete the well-chosen cast.

Because the Scottish people were organized into clans led by notable men, the landed gentry of Scotland wielded a political influence which made the members, as a class, of greater importance than the corresponding class in England. Breaking It Gently

It was the scent of summer in the air that sent a certain business man a-hurrying to his tailor.

During the winter months, however, his figure had altered. No longer was he tall and slim. Plenty of good food and long days of enforced idleness had played him a low trick.

His tailor spotted the change but, knowing his customer, kept a discreet silence as he measured skillfully.

"About the same as last year—eh?" queried the business man, as the measuring process came to an end.

"Oh, yes, sir," replied the tactful tailor. "Chest a bit lower, p'raps, that's all."

BARRERE "NICKERSON"

STATE LEGION

NAMES GEORGE

DENNY CHIEF

$2,000 Is Voted To Send Canton-Columbus Band To Paris—Charles Beck Re-chosen Treasurer.

Canton, Ohio.—George Denny of Middletown, was elected commander of the Ohio department of the American Legion at the convention today. He succeeds Herbert R. Mooney of Woodsfield.

Mr. Denny was the first vice-commander. He was nominated for office by Col. Ralph Cole, of Findlay.

Others elected are R. J. Ingersoll, Warren, first vice commander; Harold R. Ramisch, Toledo, second or navy vice commander, and Lawrence Biffington, Cleveland, marine or third vice commander. Charles Beck, of Columbus, was re-elected treasurer.

The delegates voted more than $2,000 to go toward the expense of sending a combined Canton-Columbus band to the Paris, France, convention.

Selection of a convention city for the state meeting in 1928 will be made by a committee of state officers.

Mrs. E. E. Moore, of Newark, was elected president of the woman's auxiliary of the legion. Mrs. Arthur S. Clark, of Medina and Mrs. George D. Tiffany, of Clyde, were elected vice presidents.

The auxiliary pledged $35 toward the expenses of the Canton-Columbus band to the Paris meeting.

The band will be composed of an equal number of the members of the Canton and Columbus bands as a result of the two organizations tying for first place in the contest Monday.

The Shelby Drum Corps won first place in the silver cup contest. Second prize went to the Massillon corps and third place to Elyria.

There was a total of 691 registered delegates at the convention, the largest number in the department's history.

Columbus delegates to the Paris convention will be John W. Jeffries, commander of Franklin Post; Charles Montgomery, Newark; G. W. Lewis, Worthington; Gainer and Glen Knight, Columbus.

Alternates—Dr. V. Dodd, Columbus; John Bolender, Circleville; Dr. R. J. Smith, Mt. Gilead; Harry Larimore, Chillicothe, and D. K. Black, Groveport.

NO NEED TO WORRY OVER FALLEN MAPLE LEAVES

Bugs Responsible For "Honey Dew" Do Little Permanent Damage To Trees.

If the foliage on your Norway maples is covered with a sweet molasses-like substance, just call it "honey dew" and blame chaitophorus aceris for it. Or if that name is found too much of a tongue-twister, just call him a maple aphid.

At least that is the instructions of Richard Faxon, chief of the bureau of plant industry of the state department of agriculture, who is being besieged with questions concerning the appearance of the honey dew.

According to Faxon, the little insect which excretes the honey dew is a little larger than the small red ant. He feeds on the juices of the foliage from the underside and gives in return the honey dew for the bees, ants and wasps to feed upon. He excretes the sweet, clear liquid, which falls to the tops of leaves under him.

The bugs, according to Faxon, do not greatly injure the foliage, but probably will cause some of it to fall earlier. The areas affected by the insects apparently comprise the central and southern parts of the state, Faxon said, as he has had no reports from the northern section.

Short Summer

The air-mall pilots who fly over the Rocky mountains have a summer that lasts but two months—July and August—the other ten months being so cold in their line of service that they must wear thick, warm flying suits.

Ground Never Thawsin Northern Siberia

Eternal ice, to depths of more than 100 yards, binds the soil of northern Siberia even in summer, according to Professor Schostakowitch, of Irkutsk, who spoke at Berlin recently before the Berlin Geographical society. The frozen ground covers an area of 5,000,000 square kilometers, a territory half as large as Europe. In Yakutsk a well has been sunk to a depth of 117 meters without finding the bottom of the frozen stratum. The ice hinders the sinking of surface water, so that vast cold bogs or tundras are formed on what might otherwise be fertile soil. The only spots where thawing ever penetrates this everlasting ice are directly beneath stove-heated houses. Cases are on record where these thawed columns of soil tapped subterranean rivers flowing under the ice layer, resulting in veritable artesian wells that spouted to the ceilings and drove out the occupants. This water soon froze, turning the whole house into a solid block of ice, decorated with gigantic icicles.

American Planes Flew 48 Million Miles in 1926
Washington.—A total of 23,310,355 miles was flown by civil and commercial aircraft in the United States in 1926, according to William P. MacCracken, Jr., federal chief of civil aeronautics. In addition to the mileage of heavier-than-air craft, it is estimated a total of 37,500 miles were flown by lighter-than-air craft.
The report included 1,536 planes engaged in air transport, sightseeing, exhibition, advertising, photography, crop dusting and other branches of aerial work. They flew an average speed of 80 miles an hour.
If the army, navy and coast guard flying time were to be added to this figure, the total American air mileage for heavier-than-air craft would be 48,586,492 miles, Mr. MacCracken said.
Flying over 18 regular airways, 194 planes maintained a scheduled mileage of 4,474,772 miles in 1926. Reports from all operators indicate that 94,353 passengers were carried on planes free of charge. The number of paying passengers transported totaled 676,537. The number of hours flown was 234,313 and pay freight carried amounted to 418,986 pounds.

CHURCH BOARD IS VICTORIOUS
In Head Will Case—Judge Blosser Rules That $5,000 Lapsed Legacy Belongs to Residuary Estate.

In a decision handed down Tuesday morning in the case of William V. Watts and R. F. McCoppin, trustees of the will and estate of John R. Head, deceased Bainbridge banker, against various relatives and heirs and the three missionary boards of the Methodist Episcopal church, Judge P. J. Blosser decided that the "lapsed legacy" of $5,000 which was the subject of the litigation should go to the residuary estate.
Under the terms of the will the residuary estate after all other bequests were made was to go to the three missionary boards. By placing the "lapsed legacy" in the residuary estate, the $5,000 will be split three ways among the church boards.
One clause of Head's will left $5,000 to Lincoln Wickersham, husband of Head's deceased daughter. The daughter died without any children being born of the blood issue. Wickersham later married again and his widow and child now reside in Denver, Colorado. Wickersham's death caused the $5,000 legacy to lapse.
The suit brought by the trustees was a friendly suit to determine the disposition of the legacy. The Board of Home Missions, the Board of Foreign Missions and the Board for Negro Education, all institutions under the Methodist Episcopal church, claimed the residuary estate under the terms of the will. It is understood that the amount collected by the three boards, aside from the "lapsed legacy," amounted to about $100,000.
The notable feature in connection with the "lapsed legacy" litigation is that the Methodist Episcopal church missionary boards, out of a sense of fairness, forwarded a check for $5,000 to Mrs. Wickersham some seven or eight months ago. The court award today merely puts back into the missionary boards' treasuries what they had voluntarily expended.
John P. Phillips Sr., represented the three M. E. church boards. Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

WILD LIFE GALORE AT YELLOWSTONE
Animals Reported More in Evidence Than Ever
Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—The wild animals of Yellowstone National park are making themselves more conspicuous this season than ever before. Although the bear is looked upon as one of the great attractions of the Yellowstone and may always be seen along the roads or at the special feeding grounds, the shyer animals that usually seek the higher ranges in the summer season seem to be staying closer to the main highways of the park.
Many park visitors report seeing mother elk and their calves and a number of baby deer. Moose are also reported plentiful, scarcely a day passing without some tourist reporting that he has seen a splendid bull or a cow and her calf.
Of course there are special sight-seeing trips, and on these one may seek out the wild life of the park, gaining perhaps the best results from a hike or a horseback trip conducted to Specimen ridge from Camp Roosevelt, in the northeast section of the park. In this region wild animals may almost always be found.
Parties taking these trips recently have reported seeing antelope, elk and mountain sheep. Perhaps the reason for the superabundance of wild animals in this section lies in the fact that Camp Roosevelt is not on the regular stopping schedule for the yellow busses of the transportation line and the tourist is apt to pass it by. In this rather quiet spot, however, those who are out for a real rest and vacation trip stop for several days to fish the rivers and explore the mountains and forest trails near the camp.

USE OF ICE
Doubled In the United States In Last 12 Years.

A picture of the competitive struggle now going on between the manufacturers of electrical refrigeration on the one hand and the distributors of ice, both natural and manufactured, on the other, is drawn by Harper Leech in an article in this week's Liberty.
"Just at present electric refrigeration is the new adventure of American industry," the writer asserts. "Ten years ago fewer than 1,000 refrigerating machines were sold annually. The most accurate estimates indicate that last year more than 250,000 electric refrigerators were sold."
"What does this mean for the iceman and his employer?" the writer goes on. "Is he going to follow the buffalo and the village blacksmith? Not if he can help it. The ice companies are organizing for defense, and the ice industry continues to grow. Between 1914 and 1926, the tonnage of ice manufactured in the United States rose from 28,000,000 to 56,000,000. The per capita use of ice rose from 488 pounds to 945 pounds from 1914 to 1926. It is believed that the tonnage of ice harvested from lakes and rivers at present is not quite one-fourth the production of the artificial product."

Melting Millions

With Allene Ray and Walter Miller

Have Courage Constantly

Courage is not a property which can be called out suddenly, at any required moment, and then be allowed to sink back into quiescence, there to remain until an emergency requires it again. Decidedly on the contrary, it is something that must be constantly nurtured and fed and exercised if it may be expected to possess "staying qualities."—Psychology Magazine.

INARTICULATE

His hands were far too clumsy
For the shuttle and the loom Wherewith to weave a perfect mesh
From star-glow and perfume,
From shadows in the alders
On a quiet river's shore
From hyacinths along a path
Or lilacs by a door.

His heart was always singing,
And his eyes were soft as dusk
From the loveliness, deep-hidden
In a crude ungainly husk;
He could not tell the wistful things
That murmured thru his mind—
The warp and woof and thrums of dreams
He sought, but could not find.

He walked the valleys silent,
Thru a crystal mist of rain,
His heart a muted harp that held
A masterly refrain—
A harvester with helpless hands
In fields of ripened grain.

$100,000,000 Spent by

Scotch Women for Bobs

Glasgow.—Close to $100,000,000 a year is spent by women and girls on bobbing and shingling in Scotland, according to James Stewart, the "hair-dresser" M. P. for St. Rollox, and as a consequence, he says, a new occupation has been started which employs many thousands of men and women.

"I am sure women will not return to the long hair fashion, because the present mode is so comfortable and hygienic," he went on. "Shingling is as popular with the women of the mining villages as it is with the women of Mayfair."

In England the cost of treatment of the hair varies from 35 cents in the working class village to $125 in the fashionable salons of London. Some rich women think $25 to $125 quite normal expenditure for hair treatment at one session, but such extravagance is abnormal.

"The average woman probably spends about $6 to $8 a year on hair-cuts," Stewart concluded, "which compares favorably with the expense of the average man on shaving, hair-cuts, and shampoos."

Duncan, Jane and Fudge Sauce

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

DUNCAN HODGES was not particularly sensitive. Soft music made him feel neither sad nor sentimental. He felt no special thrill at the sight of the rosy glow of sunrise. His friend, Charles Cornwall, told him that whenever he chanced to get a whiff of that particular brand of expensive perfume used by the girl to whom he had once been engaged he felt a queer, depressing sort of thrill. Duncan Hodges had listened politely—maybe other men were like that, but Duncan couldn't understand it.

He had seen Dora Claire that afternoon. They were going to a masquerade dance together in a week and they had been shopping to get their things.

Dora was a nice girl—Duncan would have granted that if you had asked him and it had never occurred to him to ask anyone else to go to that masquerade dance. Still he had never thought of her as anything but a good pal. They were walking down Broad street after having bought their masks and some enormous earrings for Duncan's pirate make-up.

"You're going to look too wonderful for words, Duncan."

"Going to look pretty nifty yourself in that Spanish get-up," countered Duncan.

"Do you really think so—Duncan?" she asked. "I wonder whether you mean it. Men say such nice things—but when you know they say the same things to all the girls they know—it doesn't count for much." Dora sighed. It was a sigh that went more or less directly to Duncan's heart. They walked on a step or two and Duncan hurriedly reminded himself that Dora was supposedly something of a flirt, and that it had even been hinted that the reason she had accepted his own addresses for the past months was because of his good job, and not inconsiderable private fortune. Still, she was a nice girl. Perhaps the tender feelings he had about his heart were, as a matter of fact, love—perhaps he really did care a great deal for Dora.

"I swear I never say things to girls just to say them," remarked Duncan. "When I say you are the prettiest girl in our crowd I mean it." This was a good beginning. They were passing a popular candy store—that was the end of romance, at least so far as Dora and Duncan were concerned. For up from the basement, out from the shop there came the enticing fragrance of fudge sauce. Duncan took two or three good whiffs—and—presto change!—there came before him—between him and Dora it seemed—the image of a frank-faced girl with reddish hair—a few freckles—eyes that were merry though not exactly beautiful. It was Jane Cobham.

"You didn't finish what you were saying," said Dora.

Duncan said that he was going to ask Dora to drop into the confectionery shop and have some tea or something. And all the time that they sat there vis-a-vis Duncan got whiffs of fudge sauce and with every whiff thoughts of Jane Cobham became more and more vivid.

Back in his rooms that night Duncan sat thinking of Jane—Jane, the girl he had liked so well four or five years ago when he was a student at a coeducational college. He hadn't had much money to spend then, but quite often he took Jane to the sweet shop. He had never analyzed the matter but now he knew that somewhere in his mind the smell of hot fudge sauce was intricately mixed up with thoughts of Jane Cobham—and both seemed very pleasant. He remembered that he had once intended to ask Jane to marry him.

Duncan went through with the masquerade. Dora scolded him for his indifference. Then she began flirting with some of the other men—thought she was punishing him, perhaps. And all the time he was figuring out how he could get away from his job long enough to run out to the college town where Jane Cobham lived.

Duncan arrived one afternoon and went straight to the old Cobham house looking for all the world as it had four years before. He rang the front-door bell and Jane answered. She seemed a little embarrassed, but she didn't look a day older than when he saw her last. In fact, to Duncan there seemed to be a softness and sweetness about her that had never been observable before. Duncan thought that was perhaps because she was engaged. So as soon as they had taken chairs in the rather shabby living room he asked her outright whether she was engaged.

"Of course not, silly," said Jane. "Well, let's go down to the sweet shop and get a sundae with fudge sauce."

Jane giggled a little. "I thought you would have outgrown things like that. We have a tea room here now. I should think tea and toasted English muffins would seem smarter to you now."

"Next time, perhaps," said Duncan. "But all I want now is fudge sauce."

A week later, back at work, Duncan came upon his old friend, Charles Cornwall. "Congratulate me," he demanded. "I'm engaged—guess you know her—Jane Cobham. Maybe you're right after all about the power of the senses—but it wasn't roses or expensive perfume with me—it was just fudge sauce."

FINANCIAL GIANTS LINEUP

DUPONTS, GENERAL MOTORS

And the United States Steel Corporation Get Together and Fuse Interests For a Sinister Purpose—Most Formidable Array of Capital Combines

The report of a "community of interest" between E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., General Motors Corporation and the United States Steel Corporation was strengthened Wednesday at Wilmington, Delaware, when stockholders of the Dupont company were informed that it had purchased 114,000 shares of common stock of the steel corporation for approximately $14,000,000 or slightly less than $123 a share.

Common stock of the U. S. Steel corporation sold at $129 2-3 on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday.

The Dupont company also owns 1,906,244 shares of General Motors common stock, which is carried on the books this year at $60 a share against $46.88 a share last year, although the stock sold on the New York Exchange as high as $229 1-4.

This is the first official confirmation of recurring reports in Wall street that Dupont interests have been heavy buyers of U. S. steel.

In connection with these reports it has been stated that Pierre Dupont, now in Europe, would be elected a director of the United States Steel corporation and eventually would succeed Elbert H. Gary as chairman.

No change in directors was announced, however, at Wednesday's meeting of steel directors. Neither was any change made in General Motors directors although there were rumors that Alfred P. Sloan Jr., would be elected to the chairmanship of the board and succeeded as president by Walter P. Chrysler, whose company would be taken into the General Motors corporation.

for the half year, applicable to the common stock, were $21,436,642, equivalent to $8.05 a share, compared with $19,315,384 or $7.26 a share in the first half of 1926, and $8,919,142 or $3.35 a share in the first half of 1925.

The company's investment in General Motors returned $15,969,331, compared with $11,313,733 for the first half of 1926 and included $7,984,976, which was the company's portion of the extra dividend received January 4.

Surplus on June 30, was $59,407,964 compared with $66,417,566 at the beginning of the year. Dividends paid on the common stock in the half year were $18,630,615. Current assets were $69,769,240, of which $17,351,133 were cash, against current liabilities of $5,186,141. Total gross assets were $346,341,460.

Temple Yields Facts

About Ancient Mexico

Mexico City.—A sumptuous chamber, the walls of which are covered with fresco paintings, said to be very similar to those found in the prehistoric temple of horticulture in the archeological city of San Juan Teotihuacan in the Valley of Mexico, is reported to have been discovered in the Maya ruins at Chichen Itza, Yucatan, by Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, in charge of archeological investigations in Yucatan under the auspices of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C., and the Mexican government.

The frescoes are said to be marvelously preserved and it is expected that when the picture writings are finally deciphered by scientists much new light will be shed on the history of Maya civilization.

Doctor Morley announced to the Mexican government that his work of exploration has been stopped for the year, because of the intense heat.

Princess-Salesgirl to Wed Her Employer

Paris, France.—A romance that began when a Russian emigre princess became a saleswoman has culminated in the engagement of Lucien Lelong, Paris dressmaker, and Princess Nathalie Paley of the imperial Russian family. They will be married early in August.

Lelong met the nineteen-year-old princess only a few months ago when she joined his staff as first saleswoman in his perfumery department.

Princess Nathalie is the second daughter of Grand Duke Paul of Russia and of Princess Olga Paley. The late Czar Nicholas II was her father's nephew.

During the war Nathalie, with her sister, Princess Irene, was taken into Finland. After her father was assassinated in 1919 her mother was smuggled out of Russia by a count dressed as a peasant. After the mother rejoined her family in Finland they moved to Paris and became socially prominent.

Princess Irene Paley recently married a Romanoff, Prince Theodore, son of the czar's sister, Princess Zenia.

SHOPLIFTERS VISIT CRIST DEP'T STORE

Silk Patterns to the Value of $60 Taken—Goods Were Recovered One Hour Later.

A light fingered shoplifter visited the Crist Department store this morning at eight o'clock and lifted six pieces of tub silk goods valued at $60. The theft and a fair description of the silk stolen was given the sheriff and police departments and the stolen goods were recovered by the sheriff's department.

The eagle eye of Deputy John Ward Jr., detected a darkey emerge from an alley back of Albert Dodd's place on South Scioto street, with a suspicious looking bundle under his arm. The fellow was stopped and in the package was the stolen silk.

He was brought to the sheriff's office and questioned. He gave his name as Rudolph Peterson and his residence as Portsmouth. He claimed to have purchased the goods from a saddle colored darkey giving him $3 for it. This description fits the stranger seen in the store early this morning and he will probably be found near the city in some railroad camp. In the meantime the man arrested was placed in the county jail and will be held as a material witness.

The time the merchandises was stolen was propitious, as the clerks of the store had not yet arrived and the only one present besides Willis Cawley, who has charge of the first floor, was the janitor, Jay Henry.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS AT CAMP GROUND

There was an election of officers and trustees held on Wednesday afternoon at the annual stockholders day at the Stoutsville camp ground. The following are the new officers; President, Rev. H. O. Davis, Columbus; one of the pioneer officers of the association when it first started; vice president, Rev. George Wier, Ashville; secretary, Rev. C. J. Poulton, of Westerville; trustees; P. M. QUEEN MARIE OF ROUMANIA WILL RETURN

Wishes to Travel as Private Person and to Look in on Political Convention.

Queen Marie has decided to visit the United States again. She hopes to start soon after her period of mourning for King Ferdinand is over she said.

In a conversation with the correspondent the queen, who is gradually recovering from the first shock of Ferdinand's death, said that she wished to travel next time as a private person so that she could go where she pleased, do as she wanted, not be a burden to the state and municipal officials and avoid quarrels among her followers.

"There are a thousand and one things I omitted seeing on my last journey and legions of people I failed to meet," Queen Marie said. "I want to see one of your great national political conventions and if time and my duties permit next summer, it is possible that I shall be able to leave Bucharest, Rumania, in time to see such a gathering."

Miss Adelaide Webb, of Columbus, is the guest of Mrs. Edward Valentine.

Surprise is expressed that there is no rush of new wheat to the market. Anyone who will study what has been going on for the last few years may discover the reason. If our farmers have learned any one thing, it is not to glut the market with offerings of the new crop. They may not be situated so as to be able to "feed" the market with wheat, but they do not need to hurry about selling their crop. Orderly marketing is made possible through a number of agencies. These do not yet function 100 per cent, but they are so far ahead of the old-time practice that their operations are a surprise to the uninformed. When the farmer can choose his own time for selling, he will be in a far better position to control the price, and that is where he is landing.—Omaha Bee.

Dead Sea Unique

The level of the Dead sea in Palestine is 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, and its waters are very salty and, therefore, heavy and buoyant. The River Jordan, flowing down from the north, empties into the Dead sea, and there is no visible outlet to the latter.

D. AND JONATHAN

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 18:1-4

GOLDEN TEXT—There is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother. PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Good Friends. JUNIOR TOPIC—David and Jonathan.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choosing the Right Kind of Friends. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Obligations of Friendship.

The friendship of David and Jonathan has become immortalized in the world's thought. It was unique in that it occurred between two men of rival worldly interests. Jonathan was the crown prince, the heir to the throne. David was heir according to the divine choice and arrangement. Jonathan knew this and magnanimously waived his natural personal rights to the one he knew God had chosen.

I. Friendship Established Between David and Jonathan (1 Sam. 18:1-4).

1. Love at Sight (vv. 2).

Following the interview of Saul and David after the victory over Goliath, Jonathan's soul was knit with that of David. He loved him as his own soul. While there was mutual love, this pleasing trait stands out more prominently in Jonathan than in David because it meant great loss to him—the loss of the throne; while it meant immense gain to David, the acquisition of the throne to which he had no natural right.

2. Covenant established (vv. 3, 4).

Following the love covenant between them, Jonathan stripped himself of his court robe and his equipment and gave them to David. This act was a virtual abdication of the throne to David.

II. Jonathan Defended David Against Saul's Frenzy (1 Sam. 19:1-7).

David went into the battle with Goliath out of zeal for God and true religion—not for personal glory, but it turned out as always that because he made God first, God honored him.

any ascribed more praise and honor to David than to Saul. These women seemed to sing as answering chants. The one sang, "Saul has slain his thousands," the other answered, "and David his ten thousands." To hear sung the praises of a shepherd boy surpassing his own was too much for Saul. "It aroused murderous envy which had been slumbering in his heart and moved him twice to attempt to kill David. This wickedness was in his heart as a bitter feeling, but this occasion fanned it into a flame, making it a burning passion of evil."

In Saul's third attempt to kill David, Jonathan defended him before his father and evoked from him the oath that David should not be slain. He thus exposed himself to the anger of his infuriated father for David's sake.

III. Jonathan Revealed to David Saul's Murderous Intent (1 Sam. 20:30-40).

The beginning of the new moon was celebrated by sacrifices and feasting at which all the members of the family were expected to be present (v. 5). David's excuse for being absent was that he might go home to attend the yearly sacrifice of the entire family. The annual feast was more important than the monthly feast. Matters were now so serious that Jonathan and David renewed the covenant between themselves. In this renewal the terms were broadened beyond the life of Jonathan (vv. 14, 15). Saul's anger was now so fierce that for Jonathan to be found in David's company was most dangerous, so he cleverly planned a sign by which he could make known to David Saul's attitude and purpose. We prove our friendship by warning those who are exposed to danger. David's heart responded by pledging fidelity to Jonathan's seed forever. This pledge was faithfully carried out by David (II Sam. 9:7, 8). Concerning real friendship observe:

1. It should be made while both parties are young, when the hearts are capable of being knit together.

2. Real friends are few. We should be careful in the formation of friendships. For though we should love everybody we can have but few friends. Friendship should be formed for the purpose of helping each other. There can be no real friendship except where merit is on both sides.

3. Real friendship can only be with God-fearing people. Both David and Jonathan recognized their obligation to the Lord.

SEE BENEFITS

To Housewives In the Study of Meats.

What is responsible for the varying degrees of quality and tastiness of the meat we eat?

If the family complains of the steak or roast, Mrs. Housewife very naturally blames the meat and censures the retailer from whom she bought it. Perhaps she is justified but it has been truthfully said that many a good piece of meat has been ruined in the cooking.

Study Meat Quality.

Housewives and consumers in general no doubt will be interested in a national co-operative study which is now delving into this question of meat quality and its tastiness. The study is fostered by the National Live Stock and Meat Board and the actual work of carrying it out has been assumed by state agricultural experiment stations throughout the country and the United States Department of Agriculture. These agencies are seeking to determine the factors which influence quality and palatability of meat. Some of these factors are known but there are others yet to be uncovered.

To reach a final analysis of quality and palatability of meat these research agencies are going to the very bottom of the subject. Their work starts with experimentation on the breeding and feeding of the meat animals. The observations are carried on through the slaughtering and processing of the meat and through the two final steps of cooking and tasting.

Cooking Tests Important.

The cooking tests are considered one of the most important steps of the entire chain of work. Dr. P. F. Trowbridge, director of the North Dakota Experiment Station, who is chairman of the cooking committee for the study, emphasizes the necessity for great care in the cooking of the experimental meats. The committee has worked out an official method for the roasting of beef and is now working on a method for other meats.

It is not expected or intended

that housewives will follow the cooking methods as laid down by the committee but there is every assurance that when the study is completed it will reveal a great deal of information of value to the woman who daily buys and prepares meat.

Other interesting phases of the study include the development of mechanical means by which color and texture can be definitely measured. Many other steps are being considered, all leading up to the cooked product.

Origin of "Stogies"

The "Pittsburgh stogie" got its name from the Conestoga wagon, according to an answered question in Liberty. In the days when freight was hauled over the Allegheny mountains in Conestoga wagons, the freighters smoked thin cigars of native tobacco. These became known as Conestogas, later abbreviated to stogies.

GREAT LAKES' FREIGHT TRAFFIC

More than 30,000,000 tons of freight have passed through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal already this season, exceeding the tonnage of the same period last year by 7,000,000. This in spite of the fact that reduction of rail freight rates for grain compelled a number of the grain carriers to tie up a considerable time.

Nevertheless the slump in Great Lakes' traffic predicted in shipping circles early in the year did not materialize. In the long list of articles of freight carried through the Sault Ste. Marie locks in the month of June were 956,150 barrels of flour, 6,012,919 bushels of grain other than wheat, 14,279,044 bushels of wheat, 7,977 tons of copper, 10,998 tons of pig iron, 11,920 tons of stone and 11,370 tons of miscellaneous merchandise. All the above was eastbound.

Returning vessels carried 2,883,448 tons of soft coal, 176,922 tons of hard coal, 7,305 tons of salt, 15,650 tons of oil, 62,277 tons of stone and 82,655 tons of merchandise. What a region surrounds these Great Lakes!—Detroit News.

Bobbed Hair Needs 10,000 More Barbers in England
London. — Shingling and bobbing have created jobs for 10,000 additional barbers in England in the last three or four years, according to statistics just compiled by the British Hairdressers' association.

There are now more than 42,000 barbers and hairdressers in England compared with 32,000 a few years ago.

In 1914 one out of every five barbers died of consumption. This death rate has been greatly decreased since the war, due to shorter hours that barbers are required to work, and to the healthier conditions prevailing in the barber shops.

PURE TIN YIELDED BY GOLD HILL MINE

Oregon's "Mystery White Metal" Is Identified.
Portland, Ore.—Pure tin is being extracted from the rocks near Gold Hill, in the Rogue River valley. That the white metal is tin has been attested by assayers in San Francisco, Denver and other places.

"We have demonstrated that we have tin. We have the mine from which the tin came. We have put all our resources into the development to date. Now we want to know whether Portland wants to develop a new industry or whether we must look elsewhere."

Such is the statement made by E. F. Logan and E. S. Erskine, ex-residents of Bend, who are in the city to submit their discovery to the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Have No Doubts.
Much has been written about the "mystery white metal" around Grants Pass. Some maintain it is tin and others express doubts. There is no doubt in the minds of Messrs. Logan and Erskine, for they have the concrete evidence and the scientific reports. These visitors represent the group of men owning the Golden Cross mine, which is three miles out in Sam's valley, north of Gold Hill, and more specifically located on Payne's gulch through which runs Payne's creek, emptying into Rogue river.

M. D. Jackson, prospector, now seventy-six, discovered the mine, having been grubstaked by Logan, then employed building a logging railroad for one of the big sawmill companies of Bend.

"For seven years we worked it as a gold mine," said Mr. Logan. "We figured we had a large body of ore. The vein is 35 feet wide 3,000 feet long, and we don't know how deep. Two years ago Glen Spurlin, who had worked in Australia and was familiar with tin, came to us. He told us that our rock contained tin, and we thought he was kidding. He rigged up a furnace and proved it by recovering buttons which were tested and found to be tin."

All Showed Tin.
"In two years these tin buttons have been carried away by many people and whenever they have been tested they showed tin. We have built a laboratory and complete equipment. We do not cook rock in kitchen stoves or blacksmith forges, but in a regular assayer's furnace. It is done in the approved scientific method. We have produced between fifty and sixty pounds of tin. Some of the bars, which we have refined, show analysis of 98 per cent pure tin. Not one, but several assayers have given certificates to that effect. The ore will average 6 per cent tin."

"There is no question whatever as to the identity of our metal. It is tin. We have proved that and are willing to prove it to any one. We would appreciate if the Chamber of Commerce of Portland or the State Chamber of Commerce would come or send representatives to our property and at first hand inform themselves as to the possibilities of developing it."

To repair wooden shingled roofs, an unusually simple and speedy method is to use slip patches cut from single-ply asphalt roofing. These are long enough to reach from the butt of the shingle up to the first row of nails. Lift the shingle up just far enough to allow a slip to be pushed in place. The sun melts the asphaltum sufficiently to stick the slip in place. No nails are needed.

When a roof has to be patched, first unroll the roofing on a floor and brush it well on both sides to prepare the surfaces so they will stick readily. Then divide the roofing into rectangles measuring 3 by 5 or 3 by 6 inches. As many as 2,500 of these slip shingles can be obtained from three rolls of one-ply roofing.—Popular Science Monthly.

310,960,019 Coins Were Made in 1927
Washington. — Fifty-eight million nickels, 175,847,000 pennies and 49,600,000 dimes were turned into the pockets of the nation by the United States mints during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report just issued by the director of the mint.

The coinage of money by the mints in Philadelphia, Denver, San Francisco and Washington fluctuated considerably during the last year, but this is due to varying demands for new money by the banks of the country, it was said.

The total domestic coinage for 1927 numbered 310,960,019 coins, with a value of $102,653,129. Compared to the report of 1926, there is a decrease in the number of pieces produced, but an increase in the value of the coins.

The most valuable coins produced were the double eagle gold pieces, with a total value of $82,840,000. Proving wide prosperity in the nation is the fact that more gold coins were made by the mints in 1927 than in the previous year, with a value of nearly $10,000,000 more.

In silver coinage, the total produced for 1927 was 72,323,019 pieces valued at $14,029,550. Last year's figures show 65,912,456 pieces with a value of $19,183,178. In this case it is shown that there were more pieces made this year, but with less value than the production of 1926.

DESERT SHIP
NOW PASSING
MOTOR TRUCK

Will Take Place of Camels
Long Used as the Motive
Power on African Trails.

Asia is now witnessing the passing of the camel. A caravan company, we are told, has sent a representative to Constantinople to purchase a fleet of motor trucks to replace the camels that it has been using for motive power on the 600-mile Trebizond-Tabriz trail. The caterpillar truck promises to become the modern ship of the desert.

Altho motor cars long ago took the place of the horse on our own highways, the camel has continued as the transportation system on this ancient trail, over which Xenophon led his retreating Ten Thousand. States fall, arts fade, but camels, it seemed, were an eternal fixture on the desert, where automobiles of the conventional type would be useless. It was the camel that brought the wealth of Hindustan to the Roman Empire, and old Byzantine palaces, that have seen better days, now serve as stables for the princely camels of the caravan company.

But the caterpillar trucks, involving a new principle in mechanics, just as the camel involves a unique principle of animal anatomy, is said to be a much superior means of propulsion. The caterpillar feature seems, in fact, to be the straw that will break the camel's back. A truck of 20 camelpower can haul several tons to the camel's 400 pounds, and one having an air cooled motor, if this is feasible under desert conditions, could excel the humped beast in traveling long distances without renewing its water supply.

The camel, in short, is succumbing to the age of speed. Tho a reliable burden bearer since antiquity, its usefulness is to end because nature gave it only a low speed, instead of a three-speed transmission. The camel will find it as difficult to compete with motor power as to crawl thru the eye of a needle.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BIG INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION TO IMPRESS PUBLIC

Cleveland, Ohio. — Cleveland's billion-dollars-a-year industrial production is to be provided with an industrial exposition in which to ride into the consciousness of the American public. For twenty-three days and nights, beginning August

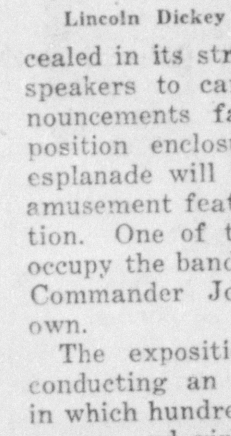

Col. Alexander

6th, down on the Mall, overlooking Lake Erie, 300 representative manufacturers, bankers, and merchants of the prosperous northern Ohio district, with their interesting exhibits will record the important reasons why Cleveland and eighteen neighbor cities have made the most of the district's natural advantages and its spirit of progress.

Col. Joseph H. Alexander, president of the Cleveland Railway Company, is president of the exposition, and Alard Smith, vice president of the Union Trust Company and chairman of the Industrial Development Committee, is secretary. The manager is Lincoln G. Dickey, who has been in complete charge of the Cleveland Public Auditorium since it was opened several years ago.

The vast Public Auditorium, which housed the last G. O. P. National Convention and in which Paderewski and Sousa played to the largest audiences in their entire careers will house many of the exhibits. To the west is another exhibition hall, a city block in length. Between these huge structures is the broad esplanade, in which stands the lofty Tower of Jewels—a glittering example of the progress in electrical development, in which Cleveland is a leading factor.

The Tower of Jewels, being built for exclusive exhibit at the Ohio-Cleveland Industrial Exposition, is being studded with thousands of crystals. Fountains will play at its base. Soft clouds of steam will float upward through its gem-decked steel supports. Shafts of colored lights will play on the fountain waters and on the floating clouds of steam. Concealed in its structure will be loud speakers to carry music and announcements far beyond the exposition enclosure. In the same esplanade will be staged the pure amusement features of the exposition. One of the bands that will occupy the band shell is Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa's own.

Lincoln Dickey

The exposition management is conducting an attendance contest, in which hundreds of northern Ohio women and girls are co-operating to give answer to the slogan question, "Who Will Carry Mighty Ohio Around the World?" Winners will be sent on world tours, as the slogan suggests, to tell other nations of Ohio's industrial prestige and opportunities. City and exposition officials will escort the winners down Euclid avenue to the exposition on opening day.

A number of special days and programs are scheduled. On one of these "days" employees who have worked for the longest, continuous period of years in the plants of exhibitors at the exposition will be honored. The Cleveland Plain Dealer is selecting these candidates for oldest employee honors, and medals will be awarded to those chosen.

Plans are under way to call attention to the fact that Cleveland's great industrial gateway, the new $80,000,000 railroad terminal bordering Public Square, is nearing completion. This, by all odds, is Cleveland's biggest single building achievement.

Playing host to national conventions, which assemble delegates of 5,000 to 10,000 here in the Fifth City, has given Cleveland broad experience in making thousands of visitors enjoy themselves. But the exposition is expected to draw the greatest number of guests in three weeks that Cleveland has entertained in a like period in its whole history. Hotels are expanding their accommodations, and a new hotel is being rushed to completion to care for the anticipated throngs. Tourist camps, municipal and private, are getting ready to take care of the thousands who will make Cleveland an objective in August.

TWO PROWLERS ROBBED WOMAN IN FROG CITY

Choked and Beaten When She Refused to Tell Where Her Money Was Hidden.

Enraged citizens and police speed crews Wednesday night combed a section of the east side for two prowlers who attacked and robbed Mrs. Henry Teats, of Toledo, while she nursed her baby in the front room of her home.

The men escaped under cover of darkness the street light in the vicinity being out at the time.

Mrs. Teats told officers she was sitting in the room with her baby when she heard the glass in the rear door crash to the floor. The two men, roughly dressed and unshaven, according to her story, ran into the room and seized her, one choking her so she was unable to scream, the other assailant took her child from her arms and placed it on a davenport. When she refused to disclose where her money was concealed, one of the bandits beat her about the face while the other snarled, "keep quiet and tell us where it is or we will kill you."

The men continued to beat her, she said and after a search found $20 she had hidden on her person. Throwing Mrs. Teats to the floor the men ran out of a rear door.

AUTO CRASH
ONE KILLED
OTHER HURT

Brice Man Victim of Collision
Between Sedan and Water
Wagon Parked on Road.

One man was killed, another injured, probably fatally, and a third, the driver, escaped uninjured, when the sedan they were riding along Brice pike Wednesday evening crashed into a water wagon parked along side of a steam threshing machine.

Occupants of the car, all residents of Brice, were Garlin H. Powell, 27, garage man, who was killed; Joseph Wright, 68, farmer, whose skull was fractured and chest crushed and Bert Kallies, 34, unhurt.

Mr. Powell was dead when a Winegarner ambulance arrived at Grant hospital Columbus, with him. An emergency operation was performed at the hospital in effort to save Wright's life, but little hope for him was entertained by those in attendance. Mr. Powell's body was taken home by the W. I. Winegarner Co.

Mr. Kallies said the three men were returning home from farm work and were driving about 25 miles an hour south on the Brice pike. He said he did not see the wagon or threshing machine, which were parked while water was being put in the thrasher. Several who saw the accident said there were lights on both vehicles.

Mr. Powell is survived by three brothers and a son. He was a widower.

Good Hobo Can Make $12 to $15 Per Day

New Britain, Conn.—Any good hobo with a hard-luck story can make from $12 to $15 a day. In the opinion of Prof. W. B. Bailey, formerly of Yale, who lived the life of a tramp three summers and then for ten years conducted a hobo's lodging house.

"Thanks to the American housewife, the easiest thing a tramp does is to eat," he said in telling of his experiences at a Rotary club dinner. "The only objection he has to the American housewife is that she insists on feeding him cake and pie when what he wants is a slice of meat between two pieces of bread."

Meaning of "Alaska"

The territory ceded by Russia in 1867 had been known up to that time as Russian America. It was called Alaska by William H. Seward, our secretary of state, this being a corruption of the Aleut word alakshak or alaksha, meaning a great country or continent.

Changes Garlic Smellto That of Tea Rose

New York.—Changing the odor of substances that ordinarily smell like rotten eggs and garlic to the fragrance of the geranium and the tea rose is part of the work of Dr. Marston Taylor Bogert, professor of organic chemistry in Columbia university.

Professor Bogert is director of the research department established in the university more than a year ago by the American Manufacturers of Toilet Articles, the organization representing the perfume and cosmetic industry, for the purpose of making a study of the relation between odor and chemical constitution. Since the founding of this department, gratifying and startling results have been obtained.

The new sulphur and selenium compound is typical. Ordinarily unoxidized sulphur or selenium organic compounds have exceedingly disgusting and unpleasant odors. Sometimes the odor is so powerful that 1,400,000,000 of a milligram of the substance is sufficient to give a fairly perceptible smell. The odor of sulphur is like rotten eggs; that of selenium, like rotten eggs and garlic. Yet Professor Bogert and his associates have succeeded in synthesizing a totally new compound, containing both unoxidized sulphur and unoxidized selenium, yet recalling in its fragrance the geranium and the tea rose.

GAME PRESERVE NEAR SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

Washington.—President Coolidge's summer "White House," the game lodge of the Custer state park game preserve in the Black Hills of South Dakota, is only a few miles north of one of the federal big-game preserves. This is in the Wind Cave National park, 4,000 acres of which have been fenced and maintained by the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. The preserve was established by act of congress in August, 1912, and its size will be nearly doubled this summer by enclosing 3,000 more acres.

One of Largest Caves in West.

Wind cave, for which both the national park and the game preserve have been named, is one of the larger of the known caves in the West, and, together with the bag-game animals in the preserve, which may frequently be seen by passing tourists, attracts increasing thousands of visitors each year. It is on the main highway from Custer to Hot Springs, S. D., on the southern slope of the Black Hills, commonly known as the foothills, a region made famous by Indian warfare.

The cave proper was named because of the current of air, often very strong, that blows intermittently in and out, varying in force and direction in response to changing temperature. It once served as channels for subterranean waters which now follow other courses. Approximately one hundred miles of passageways have been explored, and guides have penetrated to a depth of 1,500 feet. There are said to be thousands of passageways that have never been explored, and a party that leaves the beaten trails is in grave danger of being lost. For this reason no one is permitted to enter the cave without an experienced guide.

Discoverer in Doubt.

Several men have claimed the distinction of discovering Wind cave. According to one story, a cowboy was riding along the ravine when a gust of air from a small opening in the ground blew off his hat and in this way attracted his attention to the cave. Old settlers differ as to who was the actual discoverer, and a great deal is left to conjecture. The cave has many interesting and unusual geological formations.

The game preserve contains 150 buffalo, 144 elk, and 18 antelope, and, as it is a bird refuge also, many species of wild birds are protected there, including grouse and quail. The situation of the Wind cave game preserve is ideal for the perpetuation of the big-game animals that in great numbers formerly roamed the Black Hills region. Near the game preserve and park is Buffalo gap, through which great plains herds of buffalo are said to have passed in massed formation on their way to and from their winter range.

Deadly African Fly

Tsetse is a small, brownish fly found in the warmer parts of South Africa, particularly in the central part of the Zambesi valley. Its bite is fatal to most domestic animals, but harmless to wild beasts, goats and asses. It is now known to disseminate sleeping sickness among the natives.

When the Children Come Trudging In..

Is there something about the looks of their shoes that remind you that cheap materials can be made to look nice when a shoe is new, but that it soon goes to pieces on the romping feet of an active boy or girl?

Or are your children wearing our Poll-Parrot shoes, the kind that keep their shape and give such excellent service because they're made up to that high standard of solid leather value? That's the kind of materials the makers of "Star Brands" put in their shoes.

Poll-Parrots stay with busy feet. Let us fit them.

Breaking It Gently
It was the scent of summer in the air that sent a certain business man a-hurrying to his tailor.
During the winter months, however, his figure had altered. No longer was he tall and slim. Plenty of good food and long days of enforced idleness had played him a low trick.
His tailor spotted the change but, knowing his customer, kept a discreet silence as he measured skillfully.
"About the same as last year—eh?" queried the business man, as the measuring process came to an end.
"Oh, yes, sir," replied the tactful tailor. "Chest a bit lower, p'raps, that's all."

STATE LEGION
NAMES GEORGE DENNY CHIEF

$2,000 Is Voted To Send Canton-Columbus Band To Paris—Charles Beck Re-chosen Treasurer.

Canton, Ohio.—George Denny of Middletown, was elected commander of the Ohio department of the American Legion at the convention today. He succeeds Herbert R. Mooney of Woodsfield.

Mr. Denny was the first vice-commander. He was nominated for office by Col. Ralph Cole, of Findlay.

Others elected are R. J. Ingersoll, Warren, first vice commander; Harold R. Ramisch, Toledo, second or navy vice commander, and Lawrence Biffington, Cleveland, marine or third vice commander. Charles Beck, of Columbus, was re-elected treasurer.

The delegates voted more than $2,000 to go toward the expense of sending a combined Canton-Columbus band to the Paris, France, convention.

Selection of a convention city for the state meeting in 1928 will be made by a committee of state officers.

Mrs. E. E. Moore, of Newark, was elected president of the woman's auxiliary of the legion. Mrs. Arthur S. Clark, of Medina and Mrs. George D. Tiffany, of Clyde, were elected vice presidents.

The auxiliary pledged $35 toward the expenses of the Canton-Columbus band to the Paris meeting.

The band will be composed of an equal number of the members of the Canton and Columbus bands as a result of the two organizations tying for first place in the contest Monday.

The Shelby Drum Corps won first place in the silver cup contest. Second prize went to the Massillon corps and third place to Elyria.

There was a total of 691 registered delegates at the convention, the largest number in the department's history.

Columbus delegates to the Paris convention will be John W. Jeffries, commander of Franklin Post; Charles Montgomery, Newark; G. W. Lewis, Worthington; Gainor and Glen Knight, Columbus.

Alternates—Dr. V. Dodd, Columbus; John Bolender, Circleville; Dr. R. J. Smith, Mt. Gilead; Harry Larimore, Chillicothe, and D. K. Black, Groveport.

Ground Never Thaws in Northern Siberia

Eternal ice, to depths of more than 100 yards, binds the soil of northern Siberia even in summer, according to Professor Schostakowitch, of Irkutsk, who spoke at Berlin recently before the Berlin Geographical society. The frozen ground covers an area of 5,000,000 square kilometers, a territory half as large as Europe. In Yakutsk a well has been sunk to a depth of 117 meters without finding the bottom of the frozen stratum. The ice hinders the sinking of surface water, so that vast cold bogs or tundras are formed on what might otherwise be fertile soil. The only spots where thawing ever penetrates this everlasting ice are directly beneath stove-heated houses. Cases are on record where these thawed columns of soil tapped subterranean rivers flowing under the ice layer, resulting in veritable artesian wells that spouted to the ceilings and drove out the occupants. This water soon froze, turning the whole house into a solid block of ice, decorated with gigantic icicles.

NO NEED TO WORRY OVER FALLEN MAPLE LEAVES

Bugs Responsible For "Honey Dew" Do Little Permanent Damage To Trees.

If the foliage on your Norway maples is covered with a sweet molasses-like substance, just call it "honey dew" and blame chaitophorus aceris for it. Or if that name is found too much of a tongue-twister, just call him a maple aphid.

At least that is the instructions of Richard Faxon, chief of the bureau of plant industry of the state department of agriculture, who is being besieged with questions concerning the appearance of the honey dew.

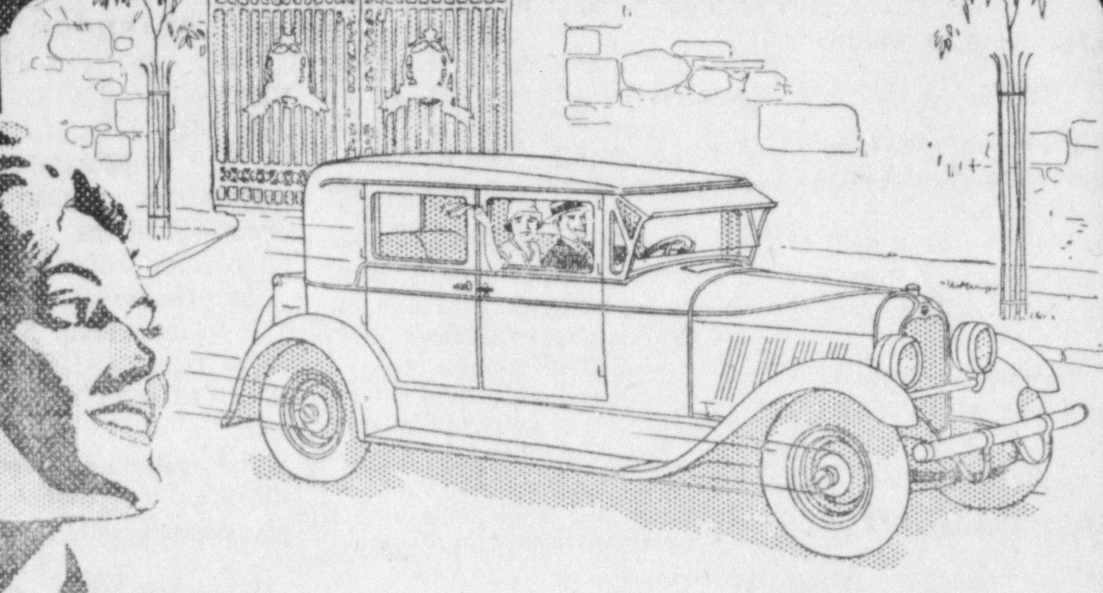

According to Faxon, the little insect which excretes the honey dew is a little larger than the small red ant. He feeds on the juices of the foliage from the underside and gives in return the honey dew for the bees, ants and wasps to feed upon. He excretes the sweet, clear liquid, which falls to the tops of leaves under him.

The bugs, according to Faxon, do not greatly injure the foliage, but probably will cause some of it to fall earlier. The areas affected by the insects apparently comprise the central and southern parts of the state, Faxon said, as he has had no reports from the northern section.

American Planes Flew 48 Million Miles in 1926
Washington.—A total of 23,310,355 miles was flown by civil and commercial aircraft in the United States in 1926, according to Willis A. P. MacCracken, Jr., federal chief of civil aeronautics. In addition to the mileage of heavier-than-air craft, it is estimated a total of 37,500 miles were flown by lighter-than-air craft.
The report included 1,536 planes engaged in air transport, sightseeing, exhibition, advertising, photography, crop dusting and other branches of aerial work. They flew an average speed of 80 miles an hour.
If the army, navy and coast guard flying time were to be added to this figure, the total American air mileage for heavier-than-air craft would be $8,586,492 miles, Mr. MacCracken said. Flying over 18 regular airways, 194 planes maintained a scheduled mileage of 4,474,772 miles in 1926. Reports from all operators indicate that 94,353 passengers were carried on planes free of charge. The number of paying passengers transported totaled 676,537. The number of hours flown was 234,313 and pay freight carried amounted to 418,986 pounds.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

CHURCH BOARD IS VICTORIOUS
In Head Will Case—Judge Blosser Rules That $5,000 Lapsed Legacy Belongs to Residuary Estate.

In a decision handed down Tuesday morning in the case of William V. Watts and R. F. McCoppin, trustees of the will and estate of John R. Head, deceased Bainbridge banker, against various relatives and heirs and the three missionary boards of the Methodist Episcopal church, Judge P. J. Blosser decided that the "lapsed legacy" of $5,000 which was the subject of the litigation should go to the residuary estate.
Under the terms of the will the residuary estate after all other bequests were made was to go to the three missionary boards. By placing the "lapsed legacy" in the residuary estate, the $5,000 will be split three ways among the church boards.
One clause of Head's will left $5,000 to Lincoln Wickersham, husband of Head's deceased daughter. The daughter died without any children being born of the blood issue. Wickersham later married again and his widow and child now reside in Denver, Colorado. Wickersham's death caused the $5,000 legacy to lapse.
The suit brought by the trustees was a friendly suit to determine the disposition of the legacy. The Board of Home Missions, the Board of Foreign Missions and the Board for Negro Education, all institutions under the Methodist Episcopal church, claimed the residuary estate under the terms of the will. It is understood that the amount collected by the three boards, aside from the "lapsed legacy," amounted to about $100,000.

The notable feature in connection with the "lapsed legacy" litigation is that the Methodist Episcopal church missionary boards, out of a sense of fairness, forwarded a check for $5,000 to Mrs. Wickersham some seven or eight months ago. The court award today merely puts back into the missionary boards' treasuries what they had voluntarily expended.
John P. Phillips Sr., represented the three M. E. church boards.—Chillicothe News-Advertiser.

WILD LIFE GALORE AT YELLOWSTONE
Animals Reported More in Evidence Than Ever

Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—The wild animals of Yellowstone National park are making themselves more conspicuous this season than ever before. Although the bear is looked upon as one of the great attractions of the Yellowstone and may always be seen along the roads or at the special feeding grounds, the shyer animals that usually seek the higher ranges in the summer season seem to be staying closer to the main highways of the park.
Many park visitors report seeing mother elk and their calves and a number of baby deer. Moose are also reported plentiful, scarcely a day passing without some tourist reporting that he has seen a splendid bull or a cow and her calf.
Of course there are special sight-seeing trips, and on these one may seek out the wild life of the park, gaining perhaps the best results from a hike or a horseback trip conducted to Specimen ridge from Camp Roosevelt, in the northeast section of the park. In this region wild animals may almost always be found.
Parties taking these trips recently have reported seeing antelope, elk and mountain sheep. Perhaps the reason for the superabundance of wild animals in this section lies in the fact that Camp Roosevelt is not on the regular stopping schedule for the yellow buses of the transportation line and the tourist is apt to pass it by. In this rather quiet spot, however, those who are out for a real rest and vacation trip stop for several days to fish the rivers and explore the mountains and forest trails near the camp.

USE OF ICE Doubled In the United States In Last 12 Years.

A picture of the competitive struggle now going on between the manufacturers of electrical refrigeration on the one hand and the distributors of ice, both natural and manufactured, on the other, is drawn by Harper Leech in an article in this week's Liberty.
"Just at present electric refrigeration is the new adventure of American industry," the writer asserts. "Ten years ago fewer than 1,000 refrigerating machines were sold annually. The most accurate estimates indicate that last year more than 250,000 electric refrigerators were sold."
"What does this mean for the iceman and his employer?" the writer goes on. "Is he going to follow the buffalo and the village blacksmith? Not if he can help it. The ice companies are organizing for defense, and the ice industry continues to grow. Between 1914 and 1926, the tonnage of ice manufactured in the United States rose from 28,000,000 to 56,000,000. The per capita use of ice rose from 488 pounds to 945 pounds from 1914 to 1926. It is believed that the tonnage of ice harvested from lakes and rivers at present is not quite one-fourth the production of the artificial product."

Have Courage Constantly

Courage is not a property which can be called out suddenly, at any required moment, and then be allowed to sink back into quiescence, there to remain until an emergency requires it again. Decidedly on the contrary, it is something that must be constantly nurtured and fed and exercised if it may be expected to possess "staying qualities."—Psychology Magazine.

INARTICULATE

His hands were far too clumsy For the shuttle and the loom Wherewith to weave a perfect mesh From star-glow and perfume, From shadows in the alders On a quiet river's shore From hyacinths along a path Or lilacs by a door.

His heart was always singing, And his eyes were soft as dusk From the loveliness, deep-hidden In a crude ungainly husk; He could not tell the wistful things that murmured thru his mind— The warp and woof and thrums of dreams He sought, but could not find.

He walked the valleys silent, Thru a crystal mist of rain, His heart a muted harp that held A masterly refrain— A harvester with helpless hands In fields of ripened grain.

$100,000,000 Spent by Scotch Women for Bobs

Glasgow.—Close to $100,000,000 a year is spent by women and girls on bobbing and shingling in Scotland, according to James Stewart, the "hair-dresser" M. P. for St. Rollox, and as a consequence, he says, a new occupation has been started which employs many thousands of men and women.

"I am sure women will not return to the long hair fashion, because the present mode is so comfortable and hygienic," he went on. "Shingling is as popular with the women of the mining villages as it is with the women of Mayfair."

In England the cost of treatment of the hair varies from 35 cents in the working class village to $125 in the fashionable salons of London. Some rich women think $25 to $125 quite normal expenditure for hair treatment at one session, but such extravagance is abnormal.

"The average woman probably spends about $6 to $8 a year on hair-cuts," Stewart concluded, "which compares favorably with the expense of the average man on shaving, hair-cuts, and shampoos."

Duncan, Jane and Fudge Sauce

(Copyright.)

DUNCAN HODGES was not particularly sensitive. Soft music made him feel neither sad nor sentimental. He felt no special thrill at the sight of the rosy glow of sunrise. His friend, Charles Cornwall, told him that whenever he chanced to get a whiff of that particular brand of expensive perfume used by the girl to whom he had once been engaged he felt a queer, depressing sort of thrill. Duncan Hodges had listened politely—maybe other men were like that, but Duncan couldn't understand it.

He had seen Dora Claire that afternoon. They were going to a masquerade dance together in a week and they had been shopping to get their things.

Dora was a nice girl—Duncan would have granted that if you had asked him and it had never occurred to him to ask anyone else to go to that masquerade dance. Still he had never thought of her as anything but a good pal. They were walking down Broad street after having bought their masks and some enormous earrings for Duncan's pirate make-up.

"You're going to look too wonderful for words, Duncan."

"Going to look pretty nifty yourself in that Spanish get-up," countered Duncan.

"Do you really think so—Duncan?" she asked. "I wonder whether you mean it. Men say such nice things—but when you know they say the same things to all the girls they know—it doesn't count for much." Dora sighed. It was a sigh that went more or less directly to Duncan's heart. They walked on a step or two and Duncan hurriedly reminded himself that Dora was supposedly something of a flirt, and that it had even been hinted that the reason she had accepted his own addresses for the past months was because of his good job, and not inconsiderable private fortune. Still, she was a nice girl. Perhaps the tender feelings he had about his heart were, as a matter of fact, love—perhaps he really did care a great deal for Dora.

"I swear I never say things to girls just to say them," remarked Duncan. "When I say you are the prettiest girl in our crowd I mean it." This was a good beginning. They were passing a popular candy store—that was the end of romance, at least so far as Dora and Duncan were concerned. For up from the basement, out from the shop there came the enticing fragrance of fudge sauce. Duncan took two or three good whiffs—and—presto change!—there came before him—between him and Dora it seemed—the image of a frank-faced girl with reddish hair—a few freckles—eyes that were merry though not exactly beautiful. It was Jane Cobham.

"You didn't finish what you were saying," said Dora.

Duncan said that he was going to ask Dora to drop into the confectionery shop and have some tea or something. And all the time that they sat there vis-a-vis Duncan got whiffs of fudge sauce and with every whiff thoughts of Jane Cobham became more and more vivid.

Back in his rooms that night Duncan sat thinking of Jane—Jane, the girl he had liked so well four or five years ago when he was a student at a coeducational college. He hadn't had much money to spend then, but quite often he took Jane to the sweet shop. He had never analyzed the matter but now he knew that somewhere in his mind the smell of hot fudge sauce was intricately mixed up with thoughts of Jane Cobham—and both seemed very pleasant. He remembered that he had once intended to ask Jane to marry him.

Duncan went through with the masquerade. Dora scolded him for his indifference. Then she began flirting with some of the other men—thought she was punishing him, perhaps. And all the time he was figuring out how he could get away from his job long enough to run out to the college town where Jane Cobham lived.

Duncan arrived one afternoon and went straight to the old Cobham house looking for all the world as it had four years before. He rang the front-door bell and Jane answered. She seemed a little embarrassed, but she didn't look a day older than when he saw her last. In fact, to Duncan there seemed to be a softness and sweetness about her that had never been observable before. Duncan thought that was perhaps because she was engaged. So as soon as they had taken chairs in the rather shabby living room he asked her outright whether she was engaged.

"Of course not, silly," said Jane.

"Well, let's go down to the sweet shop and get a sundae with fudge sauce."

Jane giggled a little. "I thought you would have outgrown things like that. We have a tea room here now. I should think tea and toasted English muffins would seem smarter to you now."

"Next time, perhaps," said Duncan. "But all I want now is fudge sauce."

A week later, back at work, Duncan came upon his old friend, Charles Cornwall. "Congratulations," he demanded. "I'm engaged—guess you know her—Jane Cobham. Maybe you're right after all about the power of the senses—but it wasn't roses or expensive perfume with me—it was just fudge sauce."

FINANCIAL GIANTS LINEUP DUPONTS, GENERAL MOTORS

And the United States Steel Corporation Get Together and Fuse Interests For a Sinister Purpose—Most Formidable Array of Capital Combines.

The report of a "community of interest" between E. I. Dupont de Nemours & Co., General Motors Corporation and the United States Steel Corporation was strengthened Wednesday at Wilmington, Delaware, when stockholders of the Dupont company were informed that it had purchased 114,000 shares of common stock of the steel corporation for approximately $14,000,000 or slightly less than $123 a share.

Common stock of the U. S. Steel corporation sold at $129 2-3 on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday.

The Dupont company also owns 1,906,244 shares of General Motors common stock, which is carried on the books this year at $60 a share against $46.88 a share last year, although the stock sold on the New York Exchange as high as 229 1-4.

This is the first official confirmation of recurring reports in Wall street that Dupont interests have been heavy buyers of U. S. steel.

In connection with these reports it has been stated that Pierre Dupont, now in Europe, would be elected a director of the United States Steel corporation and eventually would succeed Elbert H. Gary as chairman.

No change in directors was announced, however, at Wednesday's meeting of steel directors. Neither was any change made in General Motors directors although there were rumors that Alfred P. Sloan Jr., would be elected to the chairmanship of the board and succeeded as president by Walter P. Chrysler, whose company would be taken into the General Motors corporation.

for the half year, applicable to the common stock, were $21,436,642, equivalent to $8.05 a share, compared with $19,315,384 or $7.26 a share in the first half of 1926, and $8,919,142 or $3.35 a share in the first half of 1925.

The company's investment in General Motors returned $15,969,331, compared with $11,313,733 for the first half of 1926 and included $7,984,976, which was the company's portion of the extra dividend received January 4.

Surplus on June 30, was $59,407,964 compared with $66,417,566 at the beginning of the year. Dividends paid on the common stock in the half year were $18,630,615. Current assets were $69,769,240, of which $17,351,133 were cash, against current liabilities of $5,186,141. Total gross assets were $346,341,460.

Temple Yields Facts

About Ancient Mexico

Mexico City.—A sumptuous chamber, the walls of which are covered with fresco paintings, said to be very similar to those found in the prehistoric temple of horticulture in the archeological city of San Juan Teotihuacan in the Valley of Mexico, is reported to have been discovered in the Maya ruins at Chichen Itza, Yucatan, by Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, in charge of archeological investigations in Yucatan under the auspices of the Carnegie institution of Washington, D. C., and the Mexican government.

The frescoes are said to be marvelously preserved and it is expected that when the picture writings are finally deciphered by scientists much new light will be shed on the history of Maya civilization.

Doctor Morley announced to the Mexican government that his work of exploration has been stopped for the year, because of the intense heat.

Princess-Salesgirl to Wed Her Employer

Paris, France.—A romance that began when a Russian emigre princess became a saleswoman has culminated in the engagement of Lucien Lelong, Paris dressmaker, and Princess Nathalie Paley of the imperial Russian family. They will be married early in August.

Lelong met the nineteen-year-old princess only a few months ago when she joined his staff as first saleswoman in his perfumery department.

Princess Nathalie is the second daughter of Grand Duke Paul of Russia and of Princess Olga Paley. The late Czar Nicholas II was her father's nephew.

During the war Nathalie, with her sister, Princess Irene, was taken into Finland. After her father was assassinated in 1919 her mother was smuggled out of Russia by a count dressed as a peasant. After the mother rejoined her family in Finland they moved to Paris and became socially prominent.

Princess Irene Paley recently married a Romanoff, Prince Theodore, son of the czar's sister, Princess Zenia.

SHOPLIFTERS VISIT CRIST DEPT STORE

Silk Patterns to the Value of $60 Taken—Goods Were Recovered One Hour Later.

A light fingered shoplifter visited the Crist Department store this morning at eight o'clock and lifted six pieces of tub silk goods valued at $60. The theft and a fair description of the silk stolen was given the sheriff and police departments and the stolen goods were recovered by the sheriff's department.

The eagle eye of Deputy John Ward Jr., detected a darkey emerge from an alley back of Albert Dodd's place on South Scioto street, with a suspicious looking bundle under his arm. The fellow was stopped and in the package was the stolen silk.

He was brought to the sheriff's office and questioned. He gave his name as Rudolph Peterson and his residence as Portsmouth. He claimed to have purchased the goods from a saddle colored darkey giving him $3 for it. This description fits the stranger seen in the store early this morning and he will probably be found near the city in some railroad camp. In the meantime the man arrested was placed in the county jail and will be held as a material witness.

The time the merchandises was stolen was propitious, as the clerks of the store had not yet arrived and the only one present besides Willis Cawley, who has charge of the first floor, was the janitor, Jay Henry.

QUEEN MARIE OF ROUMANIA WILL RETURN

Wishes to Travel as Private Person and to Look in on Political Convention.

Queen Marie has decided to visit the United States again. She hopes to start soon after her period of mourning for King Ferdinand is over she said.

In a conversation with the correspondent the queen, who is gradually recovering from the first shock of Ferdinand's death, said that she wished to travel next time as a private person so that she could go where she pleased, do as she wanted, not be a burden to the state and municipal officials and avoid quarrels among her followers.

"There are a thousand and one things I omitted seeing on my last journey and legions of people I failed to meet," Queen Marie said. "I want to see one of your great national political conventions and if time and my duties permit next summer, it is possible that I shall be able to leave Bucharest, Rumania, in time to see such a gathering."

Miss Adelaide Webb, of Columbus, is the guest of Mrs. Edward Valentine.

GREAT LAKES' FREIGHT TRAFFIC

More than 30,000,000 tons of freight have passed through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal already this season, exceeding the tonnage of the same period last year by 7,000,000. This in spite of the fact that reduction of rail freight rates for grain compelled a number of the grain carriers to tie up a considerable time. Nevertheless the slump in Great Lakes' traffic predicted in shipping circles early in the year did not materialize. In the long list of articles of freight carried through the Sault Ste. Marie locks in the month of June were 956,150 barrels of flour, 6,012,919 bushels of grain other than wheat, 14,279,044 bushels of wheat, 7,977 tons of copper, 10,998 tons of pig iron, 11,920 tons of stone and 11,370 tons of miscellaneous merchandise. All the above was eastbound. Returning vessels carried 2,883,448 tons of soft coal, 176,922 tons of hard coal, 7,305 tons of salt, 15,650 tons of oil, 62,277 tons of stone and 82,655 tons of merchandise. What a region surrounds these Great Lakes!—Detroit News.

Bobbed Hair Needs 10,000 More Barbers in England

London.—Shingling and bobbing have created jobs for 10,000 additional barbers in England in the last three or four years, according to statistics just compiled by the British Hairdressers' association. There are now more than 42,000 barbers and hairdressers in England compared with 32,000 a few years ago. In 1914 one out of every five barbers died of consumption. This death rate has been greatly decreased since the war, due to shorter hours that barbers are required to work, and to the healthier conditions prevailing in the barber shops.

PURE TIN YIELDED BY GOLD HILL MINE

Oregon's "Mystery White Metal" Is Identified.

Portland, Ore.—Pure tin is being extracted from the rocks near Gold Hill, in the Rogue River valley. That the white metal is tin has been attested by assayers in San Francisco, Denver and other places.

"We have demonstrated that we have tin. We have the mine from which the tin came. We have put all our resources into the development to date. Now we want to know whether Portland wants to develop a new industry or whether we must look elsewhere."

Such is the statement made by E. F. Logan and E. S. Erskine, ex-residents of Bend, who are in the city to submit their discovery to the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

Have No Doubts.

Much has been written about the "mystery white metal" around Grants Pass. Some maintain it is tin and others express doubts. There is no doubt in the minds of Messrs. Logan and Erskine, for they have the concrete evidence and the scientific reports. These visitors represent the group of men owning the Golden Cross mine, which is three miles out in Sam's valley, north of Gold Hill, and more specifically located on Payne's gulch through which runs Payne's creek, emptying into Rogue river.

M. D. Jackson, prospector, now seventy-six, discovered the mine, having been grubstaked by Logan, then employed building a logging railroad for one of the big sawmill companies of Bend.

"For seven years we worked it as a gold mine," said Mr. Logan. "We figured we had a large body of ore. The vein is 35 feet wide 3,000 feet long, and we don't know how deep. Two years ago Glen Spurlin, who had worked in Australia and was familiar with tin, came to us. He told us that our rock contained tin, and we thought he was kidding. He rigged up a furnace and proved it by recovering buttons which were tested and found to be tin."

All Showed Tin.

"In two years these tin buttons have been carried away by many people and whenever they have been tested they showed tin. We have built a laboratory and complete equipment. We do not cook rock in kitchen stoves or blacksmith forges, but in a regular assayer's furnace. It is done in the approved scientific method. We have produced between fifty and sixty pounds of tin. Some of the bars, which we have refined, show analysis of 98 per cent pure tin. Not one, but several assayers have given certificates to that effect. The ore will average 6 per cent tin."

"There is no question whatever as to the identity of our metal. It is tin. We have proved that and are willing to prove it to any one. We would appreciate if the Chamber of Commerce of Portland or the State Chamber of Commerce would come or send representatives to our property and at first hand inform themselves as to the possibilities of developing it."

To repair wooden shingled roofs, an unusually simple and speedy method is to use slip patches cut from single-ply asphalt roofing. These are long enough to reach from the butt of the shingle up to the first row of nails. Lift the shingle up just far enough to allow a slip to be pushed in place. The sun melts the asphaltum sufficiently to stick the slip in place. No nails are needed.

When a roof has to be patched, first unroll the roofing on a floor and brush it well on both sides to prepare the surfaces so they will stick readily. Then divide the roofing into rectangles measuring 3 by 5 or 3 by 6 inches. As many as 2,500 of these slip shingles can be obtained from three rolls of one-ply roofing.—Popular Science Monthly.

Washington.—Fifty-eight million nickels, 175,847,000 pennies and 49,606,000 dimes were turned into the pockets of the nation by the United States mints during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report just issued by the director of the mint.

The coinage of money by the mints in Philadelphia, Denver, San Francisco and Washington fluctuated considerably during the last year, but this is due to varying demands for new money by the banks of the country, it was said.

The total domestic coinage for 1927 numbered 310,960,019 coins, with a value of $102,653,129. Compared to the report of 1926, there is a decrease in the number of pieces produced, but an increase in the value of the coins.

The most valuable coins produced were the double eagle gold pieces, with a total value of $82,840,000. Proving wide prosperity in the nation is the fact that more gold coins were made by the mints in 1927 than in the previous year, with a value of nearly $10,000,000 more.

In silver coinage, the total produced for 1927 was 72,323,019 pieces valued at $14,029,559. Last year's figures show 65,912,456 pieces with a value of $19,183,178. In this case it is shown that there were more pieces made this year, but with less value than the production of 1926.
